

Article 17

The human person is sacred and inviolable. Each individual has the right to life, personal integrity, security, freedom, the protection of private life and possessions.

Article 18

No one may be subjected to cruelty, degrading or humiliating treatment, or torture.